“ { Memorial for BOBBY } ----- HOLDING ON -----

We have laid our loved one at his final rest, right beside the love of his heart. The sparkle that he once had was as the stars together they'd seen, it all disappeared with the passing of his queen. Three weeks without her he painfully endured, for The Lord kept him with us for our last wonderful day.

The day of which we're all giving Thanks to Our Lord will always be treasured within our hearts, for it was our last day with him, the next he had part. We had no way of knowing how so very grateful we'd all be, that God's plan was to let us have him that one last wonderful day. None of us knew at that days end, of the last goodbye hug, kiss and I Love You, we'll not get to have here with him again. Of the time we've had him with us, we now hold so dear, for now we no longer have him here. We know we've so been blessed through all the years he was here. We're left HOLDING ON to what we have, what we have left with the shedding of our tears. Now, no longer do we have him, for it was his time to go, Our Savior and Heavenly Father has called him home.

He was his Mother's last baby born, to his older siblings, he was their first. He was a man with such a kind and giving heart, he had always loved children, all that were around, leaving this world behind with children of his own.

Before Our Lord called his love and him home, together they held the tiny newborn within their arms. A special moment of a so precious gift, together they had shared, for it was the first born of his first within their arms they had held. And although his age, as he is still young, a so proud Papaw he had become.

No longer shall we have him here with us, for God is now taking care of him within his arms. No longer does his heart suffer nor carrying so filled of pain, no longer are tears from his eyes falling like rain.

His family, his friends, his loves of the past, we'll all tremendously miss him with our own tears of flow. We'll always HOLD ON to all we have left, loving memories held onto so dearly, deep within our hearts, that so gorgeous smile he carried about. We'll HOLD ON to each other to help our hearts mend.

A time will surely come to have to go through this again, for we never know when another loved ones life shall end. We'll HOLD ON to Our Heavenly Father always giving Thanks of the blessings we've been given, the gift He has given all, of His life, of His love, Our Blessed Saviour, for He has given it all.

No this was not written as to bring on more grief, but to help bring some understanding to Bobby's family and friends and to hopefully help our hurting hearts some mend.

So go rest high upon that Mountain, Hon, for your work here is all done. Rest in peace, Bobby, there's no more sorrow, heartache and pain, for Our All Mighty God had taken you to His Promise Land.
