“ To the West family,

The Kentucky Book Fair is an awesome event and the fact that it benefits strapped libraries is most appropriate. The person who came up with this idea was clearly one of vision. I love all the associated lectures and the way you can print out a bookmark on a 19th century table-top printing press, etc. There are many lovely touches that speak to a high level of planning and dedication for years and years. If this is Mr. West's legacy, it's a great one for the arts and letters community in our state. Thank you from a devoted fan.
