“ I know that Charles and Kylie's relationship ended on a sour note and for that I am sorry. But I did share almost 6 years of Charles life. He had problems but overcame many of them and i was so proud of him for that. He could talk your leg off, but he was a very very smart man. And what a great cook! I tried to get him to open his own place because I knew it would be a success. But we all knew that would take money, and neither of us had that! I had just found a picture last week of when he and Kylie and I went to Ohio and visited the Creation Museum. We laughed at him in the bird sanctuary because one messed all over him and he had to go wash his shirt out in the restroom! But we had a great time. We had a lot of great times and laughs. He will be missed by family and friends, but I know he is with his mother that he loved and missed very much. My prayers are with you now and always.
