“ Oh my Cheribug....you taught me how to let go and live my life! You gave me a word for the sound of roadkill, “splackem”. You blessed me with a family that showed me blood never mattered! I wanted to be there to celebrate you so bad today but, life had other plans. My world was forever changed for the better because I had you in it and will never be the same without you! Give Eric that hug that we’ve all been craving and watch over all of us as we learn to navigate this place without you. Your candle was put out entirely too soon but I guarantee you are one of the most beautiful angels yet! I love you beyond words momma bear! Rest up now because we’re gonna party when I see you again! Much love to you and everyone you’ve touched!

“ Having only met Cheryl couple times she was then a very friendly girl with lots of energy. Dianne and I had a lifetime knowledge of each other as we had the same grandparent. Many days she and I alternated weekend staying at their home. Years pass quickly and now virus keeps many of us inside. Our grandmother asked me read to her two different bible verses before she died "Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted." ... "He will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain anymore, for the former things have passed away." Joe
