“ May God use his Loving Hands to walk Donald home and may he use those same Hands of Love to comfort the entire family as they mourn his passing. Donald taught me so much in my younger days. His down-home wisdom and his humble humor made him a great steward to his family. He understood the balance needed to make a great man. He was strong and loving, direct and patient, nurturing with the ability to allow someone to err while being not too far away to help fix any mistake made. I will miss him as a guide for my children.
