“ I remember the first time me and dustin met it was 6th grade he was so shy but the more time we spent together he opened up. If i only knew that them times we spent together were are last i would of opened up more i loved dustin with all of my heart and i wish i would of told him before i moved how much he ment to me i always wished that when i turned 18 i could finally be with him but now i have the rest of my life regreting all the things i left unsaid. I am so sorry wendy i know what you must be going through I guess what keeps me holding on is the good memories. Just know that i really loved him i just wish i could go back and change so many things. I love you all -brooke-

“ My heartfelt condolences go out to all of Dustin's family members and friends. He fought a tough, valiant battle. Please take comfort in knowing that he now rests in peace. His difficult and painful times are complete. He has earned his place in heaven. Be thankful that you got to experience his bright smile and share his love for the time he was here with you. Keep those fond memories alive within your heart.

“ I've thought so many times about the tee-shirt that you used to wear sometimes that said "Give me a dollar and I'll go way" and think what I would have given if you could have been healed and stayed. We love you Dustin (and all of your family), Judy and I stayed after the graveside services to refresh ourselves on where our plots were. We were both pleased when we were standing there at our plots and could see yours about 500 feet away. Thankfully we can all be together again someday in a place that we'll all be without pain and suffering.
We love you.

“Dustin, I meant it when I said you were my first true love. I know these last two years were hard on you, but they were the best two years of my life. We said and did things together that in 30 years we would not have had the chance to do. I didnt just lose my son, I lost my best friend you gave me the strength to do things I could never do (like flying) and you are now what is keeping me going. I meant it when I told you I wasnt afraid anymore, I know your here with me and will continue to make me strong, Iam gonna miss wathching futurama and family guy with you and more than anything the secrets we shared, you are no longer here in body but you will be here always in our hearts and minds. I will miss you til I come to join you and I will talk to you often.

“Buford & Wendy,
God doesn't always choose to reveal His reasons to us, so trust that his grace is sufficient for all your needs and know that He is holding your hand and He will not let go. We are here ~ if you need to talk, if you need a babysitter, if you need a meal. We pray that God uses Dustin's life to bring you, as a family, closer to Him. Your are in our hearts and prayers.

“Dustin,

First let me say to you that I love you so much and I am so sorry baby! You were such a special child. You touched my heart in so many ways as you did all of those who came to know you. I will miss you so much and I will remember all of the special times that we shared together. You were and still are my family. You were such an angel here on earth and I know you will be an even greater angel while you are in heaven. You had a heart bigger than life itself. You had the courage of someone who was brave and strong. You were such a fighter for those you loved and who loved you back. You had a smile that could light up an entire room. My heart is broken because I will never share any other special memories with you. I will always cherish the ones we have and hold them close to my heart as you were a huge part of my heart and my life. I spent 9 great years with you in my life. I spent two more worrying about you, asking about you, praying for you, and still loving you. Wandering how you are and what you were feeling, how you were feeling, and thanking God that we had you here on this earth just one more day. You taught me how to love a child. You changed my life. Your father and I lived for you and your brothers. We loved you all so much. I don't want to remember you as the little boy who is gone. I want to remember the love, the courage, the light that still lives on. I want to remember your face from two months ago when you greeted me at your fathers door with your glowing smile and eyes that lit up the room. you told me, "Look what I have!" and you pulled your wallet out and showed me your permit. You were so excited and I was so proud of you. I was always proud of you and your many accomplishments but most of all, I am proud of who you were and who you led others to be. You brought out the very best in everyone. You were so special. Your mother and father were lucky to have such a special boy. And you are lucky that you do not have to suffer through all life here on earth for you are gone home to be with the Lord. He must be so proud of you to for he called you home to be his special angel. Your brothers, Christian and Ethan love you so much. They miss you so much. Ethan said his heart is broken because he has so much love for you and you are gone and his heart is so big from all of the love for you. He and Christian wanted to be just like you. They looked up to you. They tried to follow your path and they will live on in remembrance of you. They will be happy and rejoice that you are with Jesus and the Lord and they will be sad that they will no longer get to share special times with you. We will see you again baby in heaven. I am so sad that I kissed you the last time that I will ever kiss you again. It is the last time I will see such an awesome boy. But we will meet again.

I loved you just as much as I loved your brothers and there was never any difference between the three of you. I will always remember taking care of you, talking to you. You telling me how much you missed your mommy and trying to comfort you until it was time to go home and see her again. I will remember staying up with you when you had bad dreams and were scared and will remember trying to comfort you. I will remember the endless times you told me you wanted me to play and the endless hours we spent playing video games together. I remember all of the secrets you told me and your first crush on a girl. I will remember helping you with your homework. The very last homework assignment I helped you with was your paper for language arts. You were writing about our trip to Cancun. I remember how much fun you had. I remember your smiling face. I will remember our walks and talks together. I will remember our walk through life together learning each other and learning to love each other. You were so special to me. You will always be my baby to. I will miss you so much. I will miss your smiling face and all of the tricks you played on me. I will miss the endless "whatever's" and "I know's" from you. I love you.

Love,

“ I do not have the words that can truly comfort you during this time of loss. I can not imagine the depth of that loss, but no matter how painful it is, Jesus is standing by you. I am struck by the many expressions of faith and the large number of people who have left condolences. It speaks well of a young life to have touched so many people. The expressions of faith in God and the life to come may hold small comfort now but will surely be treasured reminders of the people who loved Dustin and you both. I urge you to continue to trust in God, be thankful for the time you had with Dustin, that God delivered him from his pain, and look forward to that day when you will meet him again.

“ Robert,
Although I cannot begin to understand or even imagine what losing a child feels like, I do know from my own personal experiences that the loss of life of someone you love is heartbreaking and confusing. Just remember that in life and death there is a reason for all things, maybe we don't understand at the moment but as time passes the confusion and questions become less important. “ Son you have been the bravest young msn I know and you still never let this bother you. You still continued to torment your little brothers and sisters LMAO. I just wanted to tell you I love you do much. Wendy if you read this I couldn't of asked for a better mother for Dustin than you. You also are one of the bravest and strongest women I have ever know and glad that you could do the things I couldn't for him and I love you for that. Dustin you will always be thought of and again I LOVE you as am sure others also due during this time.

“ Words don't come easy at times like this. It just doesn't seem right that parents & grandparents must lose a child. Dustin was so brave and strong. His love and smiles will live forever in our hearts along with the grief. We must continue to have faith that God always knows best of our needs and of Dustin's. Sometimes we must sacrifice to help another who has greater needs than our own. I feel that God put Dustin's needs first. As parents and grandparents we all would put our children's needs before ours, because we love and care about them--they are our lives. GOD loves and cares more for them than we ever could.

The LORD never promised smooth sailing throughout our lives--but HE did promise a safe landing.

Wendy, Buford & Family, you all will be in my prayers. If there's anything I can do, just call.

“ I have known Dustin for years and I always thought the world of him and the family. Buford was great with him, and I know that Wendy and his father loved him very much. He was hard not to love! He was very well behaved and the cutest thing. He was my ring bearer awhile ago and was the perfect little gentleman at the wedding. I am very proud of the family and how they have handled everything. No one should ever have to go through what they have been through. Wendy is a strong person and she makes everyone around her strong. He will be missed, but he is here in spirit every day. He is in a better place now, with no pain.

“ Keeping you and your family in my thoughts and prayers. I will cherish the memories we have of Dustin when the children were smaller and we would all be at Lisa's and when he went camping and we let him tube, but Lisa made sure that Carl did it easy because Wendy was a little unsure of the tubing thing but Dustin did fine.

“ Our heavenly Father has a need for more angels to look over his flock. We don't understand why our loved ones leave so early but God has a really good reason.
