“ So full of life she was, blunt, honest, fiery..she'd give the shirt off her back to anyone in need. I worked with her in Richmond, at Madison health and rehab. I was her Rn supervisor. She was a great cna. She'll always hold a special place in my heart.

“ The memories I have. Some wonderful, and sadly, as some know, some were horrible. I could probably write a book on Liz, but I just want to share one time in her life that is and always has been my favorite. It was when she went to daycare at Immanuel Baptist Church. Liz being who she was throughout her life, was going to do it her way. And that meant that if she didn't want to take a nap, then she wasn't going to take one. And, being the smart little girl she was, after a few days of them continuing to put her down, she figured she knew how to stop that napping thing. So, one day after they put her down for her nap, as the workers went around putting the rest of the kids down, Liz was going behind them and taking up the other kids' blankets and telling them all to get up and that there were no naps that day. She was the first child I ever knew that got kicked out of daycare.
