“ Frank , when I was sick called and offered to help us keep the farm going . He liked fixing up old farms and buildings and making something wonderful out of them. He wanted the best for the land conserving it for green space and not wasting older buildings and their character - he'd fix them up . That was an attribute he had that's sorely needed these days . He had a lot of people that he considered friends and vice versa . He enjoyed life with passion and drive that not all folks can accomplish. A fearless man that enjoyed church and Christian faith .
Frank went thru loss and illness that no one should have to experience and showed strength during it all .
He can be described as a bigger than life kind of guy that was fun to be around and he saw to it that his family were always without need . He was a good man . I should have told him this before he left us .
I hope the best for his family and their future . Richard Jones
