“ *There's no way of explaining
all the hurt we feel without you here.
There are days, without complaining,
we'd rather stay in bed and cry the tears.
We're gonna miss your gentle ways,
how you blessed us every day.
Now there's a hole left deep inside.
You were a corner in this puzzle we call life.*

*Take away a piece there from the middle,
and the picture will never be the same.
But somehow, the imagination covers
the missing piece and nothing's really changed.
If you remove a corner, there's no way to replace the difference in the structure when complete.
Corners give a place to start the puzzle,
and help to build the picture piece by piece.*

*There's no way of explaining
all the hurt we feel without you here.
There are days, without complaining,
we'd rather stay in bed and cry the tears.
We're gonna miss your gentle ways,
how you blessed us every day.
Now there's a hole left deep inside.
You were a corner in this puzzle we call life.*
