“ I choose to remember the handsome young man I met 35 years ago. Randy I loved you always. Our many good parties and hanging out and acting goofy. The naked sun bather next door, the crazy party hound who swung through my living in women's clothing. Anything for a laugh and a good time. The man who always showed up for the party. The hard working body man. The man who loved his mother the way all mothers would like to be loved. The man who loved his brothers and family more than anything. The man with deep convictions and feeling who stayed true to himself. The man who fought his demons alone. The man who loved his friends. The man who loved many and many loved him. Most important the Happy Nervous daddy you were the day your world was born Adam Seth your daddy loved you with all his heart. His every wish ,concern or worry was for you. His life fast and furious. Rich and full. One could only hope to live as much as he lived and to be loved as he was. I will always cherish our times together. The many cups of coffee. The nights you crashed at my house. The ball games you watch and I slept thru. And your friendship through my divorce. My friend. I will remember and love you always. I hope our moms greeted you when you arrived. Rest In Peace sweet man.
