“ Sometimes its hard to let go, but the great thing about Aunt Ruby is that we dont have to.

The things she taught us, the smiles she gave us and the love she showed us will remain forever. As Sam (6) said before I left to come to Frankfort, "Shes an Angel now Daddy, she can watch over us". No truer words than those of a child. And in a sense she has always been that for me. Watching over, teaching, hugging listening and loving. From the many hours as a child spent on the "Sleepy coach" or Playing school in her kitchen while she made cookies or candies or my Favorite Peanut Butter Balls, Aunt Ruby always watched over me. She wasnt just a distant aunt, she was my Grandmother that I didnt have. She was a teacher, not only of lessons in school but on how to be a good boy and how to be a good man.

I will miss you. But as Sams says your an Angel now. So like you always have. Watch over us. Take care of us and know WE LOVE YOU.

Uncle Pete... My heart aches for you. I always knew if I need to see what love should be I could look at you looking at Ruby and in your eyes love flowed. She loves you, she is watching over you. Now she is not only your Angel but an Angel in heaven. I can hear her now, "Well I declare!" as she is greeted with such love in Gods arms. Know that the love you two shared is amazing.

Thank you for showing such love for her. Thank you for caring so deeply for her. Some day you will see her smiling face again and that love you shared will live on forever. So be sad, but when you are just listen, she will be there in the wind whispering to you.

I love you Aunt Ruby. God Bless you!

LOVE
