“ My, my my. What a wonderful woman Susan was and always will be. I had the privilege of being one of her art students during High School @ East Hardin/Glendale, Ky. She was very serious about her craft and put up with no nonsense. When she would come upon a student with talent....and gratefully I was one...she would take that student under her wing and push them to their limit for excellence. She also had a very quiet compassionate side fueled by her intuition. I was being physically abused at home by a militant father and she was the first person of authority to sit me down and ask about it. I'll never forget that. Thanks to her words and influence, I was able to ultimately escape that hell and continue on to college @ her Alma Mater and create a wonderful life. Thank you, Miss Sparrow...as I called her. I never forgot you and hope toone day....sit at a huge mound of modeling clay and create something beautiful. You certainly were.
