Wilma was born in McCreary County, Kentucky on September 23, 1931 to the late James and Bertha Chitwood Lewis. With a bright and colorful childhood, she spent her younger years running through the hills of Eastern Kentucky, fishing, hunting and learning to appreciate and love time spent exploring outdoors. Whether it was memories of her spending time at her uncle💎s store enjoying a Hershey bar, or walking alongside the railroad tracks with her siblings, she always seemed to cherish those precious moments. Passed down from her father, she was known for having a great sense of humor. As a young, driven woman, she moved to Frankfort and worked for the State as a secretary and later on, in Ohio. After marrying her beloved late husband, Kenneth Shelby Travis, together they moved back to Frankfort. Through her years, her love for exploring never ceased and instead, continued to grow to traveling with her husband. She was a loving homemaker, a great hostess, and never missed an opportunity to have a family gathering. Above all, she was a godly and faithful woman, who loved her family and her church.

In addition to her husband and parents, she was also preceded in death by her son, James Charles Travis and by her siblings, Harold Lewis and Aldena Guthrie.

She is survived by her sister, Marjorie Smith and by lots of loving nieces and nephews.

In lieu of flowers, expressions of sympathy may be made to St. Jude's Children's Hospital.

Arrangements are under the direction of Harrod Brothers Funeral Home.
